IDP community committees established in IOM sites to support site-care activities and community inclusion

The International Organization for Migration (IOM's) camp coordination and camp management (CCCM) programming aims to improve the living conditions of displaced families living in informal and formal sites, collective centres, communal buildings and spontaneous settlements in four governorates (Ma'rib, Al Hodeidah, Ibb, and Ta'iz), including the largest IDP hosting site in Yemen, Al Jufainah, in Ma'rib, hosting nearly 60,000 individuals. The CCCM response in Yemen is critical to ensuring dignity, safety, and protection for the most vulnerable displaced populations through core site management activities, including site assessment, IDP registration, mapping of needs, vulnerabilities, and gaps, referral, community mobilization, and coordination of the humanitarian response within the site. The CCCM teams also collaborate with other IOM programs to provide an integrated response in sites, including water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH), shelter and non-food items (SNFI), Cash, Health and Protection activities in these sites, and mobilize external partners to ensure additional support is provided. The programme also provides technical advice and capacity building to authorities acting as camp administration, IDP camp committees, and national non-governmental organizations working in site management. This approach is complemented by a strong focus on physical improvements to the sites, and care and maintenance, in order to enhance living conditions and reduce exposure to natural hazards and diseases.

COORDINATION AND SERVICE MONITORING

As conflict continues to drive displacement, most displaced people resort to existing displacement sites which strains basic service provision and forces many to live in deplorable conditions. IOM conducts regular monitoring of needs in the sites, maintains a comprehensive mapping of site-level service gaps, and establishes a site-level complaint and feedback mechanism to ensure dignified living conditions for displaced populations.

Housing, land and property (HLP) issues remain a serious challenge, and IOM continues to coordinate with authorities, sub-clusters and landowners to prevent and respond to encountered eviction threats. IOM works closely with authorities and the CCCM sub-clusters to prevent unannounced forced evictions and identify alternative housing arrangements for households living in informal settlements or public buildings and facing eviction risks.

CARE AND MAINTENANCE OF SITE INFRASTRUCTURE

Through a participatory approach, IOM implements various site improvement projects and conducts regular care and maintenance of site infrastructure to improve living conditions and site safety, with a special focus in Yemen on reducing the risk of fires in sites, mitigating the impact of the impact of seasonal flooding, and preventing the spread of communicable diseases.

Where possible, IOM implements these activities through cash for work (CFW), as it provides income opportunities to IDPs and enhances their sense of involvement and participation.

COMMUNITY MOBILIZATION AND CAPACITY BUILDING

IOM strives to provide displaced communities with the tools and support necessary to promote community participation in site management. IOM targets local authorities, site focal points, and community committees with CCCM trainings to help them resolve the various issues they face at the site level and build their skills in coordination, information management, community participation and monitoring. Through trainings of trainers (ToT), IOM empowers key community members to conduct trainings themselves and thus ensures capacity building remains a continuous priority in displacement sites.

The CCCM teams also conducts community mobilization and relative capacity building on awareness raising on COVID-19 preparedness and response, encouraging community participation, and creating opportunities for often excluded groups, such as women, persons with disabilities and youth, to take part in camp leadership and other empowerment initiatives.
